The national syllabus for Irish at third level project was directed by An Mheitheal um Theagasc na Gaeilge ar an Tríú Leibhéal. This lecture will review the implementation of the new syllabus at third level and discuss how this experience may benefit similar initiatives in other languages. It follows on from the 5 February IRAAL lecture in TCD on Irish language syllabus development at third-level.

Dr. Ríona Ní Fhrighil, formerly of St. Patrick's College, Drumcondra, is now a member of Roinn na Gaeilge, NUI, Galway. She has played an instrumental role in implementing the new Irish-language syllabus in both institutions.
