

A lecture on

Researching Vocabulary: Important but Neglected Issues

by

Dr Norbert Schmitt

Professor of Applied Linguistics
School of English Studies
University of Nottingham

“Although seemingly relatively simple, vocabulary is actually a complicated area. Much research is designed without due awareness of some of the key issues which impact vocabulary results. This presentation will highlight a number of common pitfalls, based on the presenter's 20 years of vocabulary research.”

Norbert Schmitt is Professor of Applied Linguistics at the University of Nottingham. He has authored five books on vocabulary issues, and has published over 50 articles on the subject in international journals.

Date: Friday 19th March 2010

Time: 7:30pm

Location: UCD Applied Language Centre, Daedalus Building

There should be no difficulty parking on the Belfield Campus on a Friday evening.